

Clegg

Continued from U-1

A non-profit group known as the Scenic Canyons Preservation Society has completed construction on a 23-acre park to the side of Bridal Veil Falls. "There will be picnic tables, barbecue pits and plenty of parking," Nelson said. "They are laying 100,000 square feet of sod for the park."

But the real reason to stop is to enjoy the beauty of Bridal Veil Falls. Cascading 604 feet, the falls are fed from Cascade Mountain Springs. There is little change in the falls from season to season or from year to year.

There is a 15-minute walk from the road to the base of the lower falls where visitors can enjoy the mist on a hot summer day.

But the only way to really enjoy the beauty of the falls is the way Clegg did, from the top.

The short, but steep ride up is 1,228 feet at an angle ranging from 45 to 66 degrees. But the wonder of the site is well worth it.

At the top is a short trail leading in one direction to a view of the upper falls and in the other to a view of Utah Valley and Utah Lake, final destination of water from the falls.

Bridal Veil Falls is a site of natural beauty for all to enjoy. As Clegg said, "If I hadn't been such a stubborn fool these people would never have seen what I have known all these years they would enjoy seeing."

Payson decides —

By Jerrie S. Fackrell

Deseret News correspondent

PAYSON — The City Council has decided to stay in the commercial garbage collection business — at least until it can come up with a better way to handle the commercial trash service.

The city first considered turning the business over to private companies after receiving several complaints about the service, the fees charged and days trash was collected for the city's 148 commercial customers.

And one of the city's largest customers, Mountain View Hospital, already was using a private company to collect its trash. The hospital's move prompted worries that other large customers would drop the city's service, leaving Payson to serve the smaller and less lucrative customers.

The hospital's decision to turn to Laidlaw Waste Systems, Lindon, will cost the city $600 a month.

Two months ago, the City Council passed a law forbidding individual commercial haulers to try to pick up the city's commercial a

After passing the probably went beyond competition.

In trying to solve officials met with I law, to discuss the p all the city's comm

Zobell proposed p account if the city saying their accoun

Zobell said he wo truckloads of trash

When the council ters requested by Z

In the second pr $1,000 and $128 per

However, after V learned that the ci